Phone Struggles:

- You know, these days our entire life is in our phones.
- If I lose my phone for five seconds, I act like I've lost a kidney.
- Phantom vibrations: your leg vibrates, you check your phone nothing.

- Phone battery at 1%: Suddenly, you're an Olympic sprinter looking for a charger.
- At that moment, you will unplug your grandma's life support if that's the only socket left.

Parents and Technology :

- Parents on WhatsApp: 17 Good Morning' messages with flowers every day.
- Parents' voice notes: 5-minute recordings just to say, 'Call me.'
- Video calls: Why do parents always hold the camera under their chin?
- I've seen my dad's nose hairs more than I've seen my best friend's face.

Social Media vs. Real Life:

- On Instagram, I look like a fitness influencer. In real life, I get tired tying my shoes.
- Filters can turn a potato into Miss Universe.
- That one friend who's 'too busy' to reply but always posts throwback photos from 2017.

School Life:

- Group projects: One person works, one disappears, one brings snacks I was the snack guy.
- Exams: 'Bro, I'm gonna fail.' Results: 95%. Bro, pick a struggle.
- School bags were so heavy; I think I carried my future in there.

Wi-Fi Struggles:

- When Wi-Fi goes down, the whole family meets each other for the first time.
- Visiting relatives: 'Hi, hello, namaste what's your Wi-Fi password?'
- Wi-Fi dead spots: One step to the left signal gone, welcome to the Bermuda Triangle.
- Callback: 'I've entered the nostril zone!' (referring to dad's video calls)

Closing:

- Thank you! Life's all about good Wi-Fi, fully charged phones, and avoiding your dad's video calls.
  - Stay connected, but most importantly stay out of the nostril zone!
- Goodnight!
